Introduction

The undergraduate programme BA Arabic, aims for students to leverage their knowledge of the Arabic Language for analyzing literature, history, and its modern aspects through the core subjects. In addition, the course explores the intricacies of the Arabic Language and its implementation in diverse fields. Moreover, the subjects in a BA Arabic course are recomposed by detail-oriented educators, providing a weighty syllabus related to diverse aspects of Arabic literature and the language world.

The BA Arabic subjects list's most significant and initial subject is the Arabic Language. Initiating the three-year journey with the basics of Arabic is necessary to further understand the in-depth concepts, complex language, and intricacies of world literature. This subject deals with a basic understanding of Arabic grammar, with its origin, evolution, advancement, and further change with the modern world. The Arabic language is also necessary to proceed toward complex study slowly. It also narrates the history of Arabic, which can be very engaging and insightful for Arabic learners. This subject allows learning the historical beginning and significance of Arabic literature. Since the richness of Arabic literature is heavily reliant on its history; therefore, this subject gathers the core Arabic history modules covering the details of literature from different regions of the world. Arabic literature also projects societal and cultural changes through the centuries that are reflected through its written works. As a student proceeds ahead, fields and specifications clear a lot better by possessing the knowledge and base of Arabic literature, which is its history.

	There is almost no shared vocabulary between Arabic and Latin-based languages. Every single word you learn is a new word.
	Arabic is a highly inflectional tongue. Subject, tense, and mood are communicated by how you inflect your tone.
	There are ten usual verb patterns, and students must memorize the conjugation and vocalization for the active and passive voices
	Plurals and their agreements with numbers are more difficult and complex than what we are used to in English
	.Arabic is foreign to English speakers in every sense of the word.
